

harbour cruise

“Do you have 20/20 Security Vision”?

SECURITY CONFERENCE ASIS INTERNATIONAL

Sydney 17th & 18th October 2018

MC Helen Dalley

Deputy Commissioner
David Hudson APM

harbour cruise

- EARLY BIRD TICKETS ON SALE
- Members $750
- Non members $900

Included in your ticket:

- 2 day conference entry at Sheraton on the Park
- 12 knowledgeable speakers w additional panel discussions
- Access to view products available from our supporters
- Coffee and light refreshments on arrival, morning and afternoon tea daily
- Buffet luncheon in Feast restaurant daily, showcasing Sheraton's seafood selection
- Networking Cruise Wednesday 17th October evening

<http://www.asisnsw.org.au/nsw-events/asis-australia-2018-conference>

- Additionally Thursday 18th October you can purchase a ticket to the OSPA's dinner being held at Doltone House (next door to the Sheraton) at the conclusion of the conference.

<https://www.asial.com.au/events/category/awards-for-excellence>

ASIS NSW Chapter is Proudly Supported by

Conference Speakers

Professor David Brooks

Is your Organisation at Risk from its Intelligent Building System? Guidance in assigning Mitigation Strategies

Intelligent Buildings (IB) are now common, although they may expose occupants to risks. A recent ASIS Foundation project investigated IB vulnerabilities, practice and mitigation strategies, resulting in an IB Guidance to assist security professionals in mitigating their organisational risks.

Professor Martin Gill

20-20 Vision: the reality and the myth for security

Based on original research that was in part conducted in Australia Martin will discuss where the discipline of security is heading and where he feels it ought to go. He will draw from work in prisons with offenders and from interviews with senior security leaders. On some issues at least the two sides agree but one is ahead in what has been termed a 'war of attrition'.

Dr Kira Harris

Russia's proxy players: Who are the Night Wolves MC?

The Night Wolves Motorcycle Club's activities in Eastern Europe, particularly Ukraine, highlight how a motorcycle club can cultivate a fifth column to agitate domestic politics on the Kremlin's behalf. This presentation examines the club's history, as well as their evolution into Russia's hybrid warfare model through open source information.

Dr Stacy-Ann Oerder

Facial Recognition

Media reports claim it's possible to track and identify anyone using facial recognition. Is this myth or Truth? What are the real benefits of current facial recognition systems and what does the future of facial recognition look like?

Elizabeth Shoebridge

Labels are divisive and morning teas don't help

During this interactive presentation Elizabeth will present the difference between diversity and inclusion and collaboratively work with the audience to identify how that difference could be contributing to and increasing risk in organisations, governments, and institutions.

Nicholas Burt

The impact of security on the facilities management industry

Facilities management which is focused on occupants, and ensuring they are secure within a facility is as important as providing a clean and comfortable environment. With an ever-changing risk profile, the challenge to understand how security impacts facilities users, is a key factor in ensuring their safety.

ASIS NSW Chapter is Proudly Supported by

Conference Speakers

CHRIS CUBBAGE

A new Race- The Now, The Soon To be & the 20/20 Year horizon robotics, Artificial Intelligence (AI) Human Convergence

The rise of the robot is a challenge with 'pros and cons' for security providers seeking greater detection, monitoring, awareness and analytical tools to assist security intelligence and law enforcement.

CODEE LUBBEY

Designing for Safer Cities

A rapidly urbanising world is placing unique stresses on our communities that can lead to anti-social behaviour. How can we design cities that are safe without compromising liveability?

DANIEL LEWKOVITZ

How the Security Industry became a Threat to National Security

Shonkapalooza - Why the security industry is, ironically, a threat to national security. From inept security providers to bumbling government policy, we'll expose the problem and how to traverse its impact.

RACHELL DELUCA

The Psychology of Security and the Perception of Safety

An exploration of the psychology of feeling safe and protected in a world of Security Theatre, and how best to ensure effective security treatments that provide actual security and protection.

DAVID HARDING

Do you have 20/20 vision, of the enemy?

Do you have 20/20 vision, of the enemy?
Security Risk Management is thought to be an effective crime prevention tool. It is not. This presentation will identify causal factors and provide models to overcome this alarming fact.

ASIS NSW Chapter is Proudly Supported by

